2. Intelligence Research (Techniques) No. 10 ended on Friday with six students. Two students in the course are now taking the IOC, even though the OSI TLO suggested that they might take the waiver test. One of these students had objected to the amount of training he was having to take, but as a result of the objective tests given in IRTC No. 10 he realized how much he didn't know about the Agency and its operations, and was eager to take the IOC.

3. When the PIC speaker gave a one-hour presentation in IRTC No. 10 he stated, in response to a question on how the analyst can use PIC, that the analyst should not make a request for PIC services until he has exhausted his own resources. He explained that the analyst should order ground and aerial photos of the item he is studying, and should do his own PI work. Only if the analyst is unable to fully exploit these photos should he call on PIC for help. This view of PIC indicates that there is a great need for PI training for analysts in the DD/I and DD/P.
